

More than 70 ski hills within range of Montreal

Do you know?

Participation in downhill skiing and snowboarding has increased over the last four years, while the number of cross-country skiers has fallen. About 1.8 million Canadians downhill ski exclusively, 955,000 snowboard and 704,000 cross-country skiers exclusively.

Last winter there was a record number of skier visits, with all regions in Canada having an increased level of participation. However, fewer U.S. skiers visited Canadian ski resorts.

Quebec and Western Canada have the highest percentage of advanced or expert skiers.

While the majority of snowboarders are male, women comprise the majority of cross-country skiers.

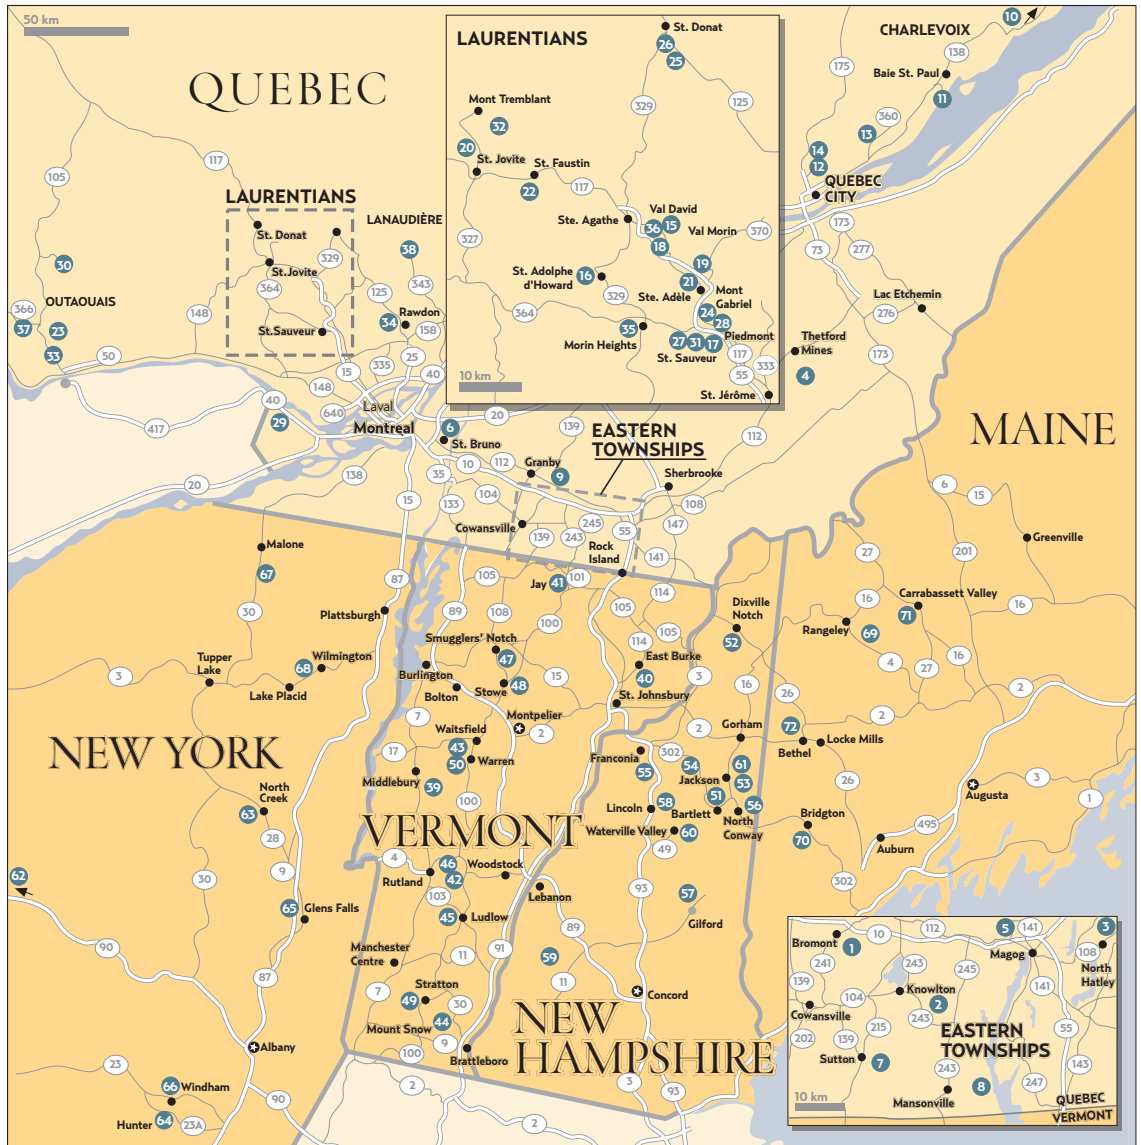

The most common ski injury is a sprained thumb.

Quebec skiers and snowboarders are older than skiers and boarders from other parts of the country.

An alpine skier skis an average of 7.3 days per season, a snowboarder eight days per season and a telemark skier 10 days per season.
